

Workplace First Aid Courses

FIRST AID AT WORK REQUIREMENTS

People at work can suffer injuries or fall ill. It doesn't matter whether the injury or the illness is caused by the work they do or not. What is important is that they receive immediate attention and that an ambulance is called in serious cases. First Aid at Work and EFAW cover the arrangements you must make to ensure this happens. It can save lives and prevent minor injuries becoming major ones.

REGULATIONS

What do the regulations say?

You are required by law to make an assessment of significant risks in your workplace. Your first aid provision will depend on your risk assessment.

The Health and Safety (First Aid) Regulations state that employers must provide:

- adequate and appropriate equipment and facilities
- adequate numbers of suitable persons to administer first aid
- a responsible person to take charge when the designated first aider is absent
- information to all employees concerning the arrangements for first aid.

Self-employed people must provide:

- adequate and appropriate equipment and facilities to provide first aid to themselves.

Businesses now have more flexibility in how they manage their provision of first aid in the workplace following an amendment to the Health & Safety (First Aid) Regulations 1981 on the 1 October 2013 which removed the requirement for the HSE to approve first aid training and qualifications.

SO WHAT DO I NEED TO DO?

What is adequate and appropriate will depend on the circumstances in your workplace and you need to assess what your first aid needs are.

The minimum first aid provision on any work site is:

- a suitably stocked first aid box
- an appointed person to take charge of first aid arrangement
- information for all employees about what they need to do in case of an emergency

It is also important to remember that accidents can happen at any time.

First aid provision needs to be available at all times people are at work.

WHAT IS AN APPOINTED PERSON?

An appointed person is someone who is chosen to look after the first aid equipment and take charge when someone is injured or falls ill, including calling an ambulance if required. An appointed person should not render any first aid treatment, other than emergency first aid and then only where they have been specifically trained in these procedures. An appointed person should be available at all times people are at work on site which may mean appointing more than one person.

WHAT IS A DESIGNATED FIRST AIDER?

A designated first aider is a person who has undergone a three day training course in administering first aid at work and holds a current First Aid at Work certificate. First aid certificates are valid for three years. A first aider can also undertake the duties of an appointed person.

HOW MANY FIRST AIDERS DO I NEED?

COURSES

MedAid Services offers a full range of First Aid at Work Courses and Paediatric First Aid courses.

If you have a particular first aid training requirement or work in an environment likely to require specific first aid knowledge we can also provide this.

EMERGENCY FIRST AID AT WORK (1 DAY)

This course is completed over one day. It is continually assessed by the instructor and upon successful completion of the course, the student will be able to act as a first aider in the workplace. Candidates will be issued with a certificate which is valid for three years. At the end of this three year period they will need to undertake the EFAW course again.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This course is ideal for smaller/lower risk workplaces that present few health and safety risks where a nominated person is required to take charge in the event of illness or accident.

Fully qualified first aiders in larger organisations can also benefit from the additional support.

CONTENT

- Role of the First Aider
- Introduction to First Aid
- The Unconscious Breathing Casualty
- Resuscitation
- Choking
- Circulation Theory
- Shock
- Wounds & Bleeding
- Minor Burns and Scalds

FIRST AID AT WORK (3 DAY)

This three day programme has been designed to comply with the requirements of the Health and Safety (First Aid) Regulations. Tuition is classroom based and requires 100% attendance. There is time built into each day for practical exercises.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

All staff who are designated to be a first aider.

CONTENT

- Role of the First Aider
- Introduction to First Aid
- The Unconscious Breathing Casualty
- Resuscitation
- Airway & Breathing Difficulties
- Circulation & Disorders
- Wounds and Bleeding
- Causes of Unconsciousness
- Burns and Scalds
- Eye Injuries
- Poisoning
- Injuries to Muscles, Joints and Bones

FIRST AID AT WORK REQUALIFICATION (2 DAY)

Having qualified as a first aider, your certificate will be valid for three years. It can ONLY be renewed by attending a two day re-qualification programme BEFORE the certificate expires, otherwise you will need to re-take the three day programme. This two day programme has been designed to comply with the requirements of the Health and Safety (First Aid) Regulations. Tuition is classroom based and requires 100% attendance. There is time built into each day for practical exercises.

When you attend the re-qualification programme, you need to be able to produce your current First Aid at Work certificate.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Qualified three day first aiders seeking to renew their qualification before the end of three years.

CPR AND AED (½ DAY)

This course provides learners with the skills and knowledge to deal with a person having a heart attack or cardiac arrest. It meets the recommendations from the HSE covering the provision and use of an Automated External Defibrillator (AED) in the workplace.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

All those who are expected to use a workplace defibrillator as part of their first aid role.

CONTENT

- The Unconscious Breathing Casualty
- Resuscitation
- Choking
- Use of an automated external defibrillator

ANNUAL REFRESHER

FIRST AID AT WORK (½ DAY)

Research has shown that following training, the practical skills of first aiders can deteriorate. It is strongly recommended that first aiders undertake annual refresher training during any three year FAW/EFaw certification period. This will help first aiders to maintain their basic skills and keep up to date with any changes to first aid procedures.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Qualified 1 day or 3 day first aiders needing to refresh their skills and keep up to date with First Aid procedures between their 3 year re-qualification periods.

CONTENT

- Assessing Emergency Situations
- The Unconscious Breathing Casualty
- Resuscitation
- Choking
- Shock
- Wounds and Bleeding

PAEDIATRIC FIRST AID (2 DAY)

This course is appropriate for all those who work with younger children and babies, who have no formal first aid qualifications. It will also be suitable for First Aid at Work qualified staff and other trained staff who need to meet the legislative requirements in relation to providing First Aid to young children and babies. It will empower delegates with the skills, knowledge and confidence to cope with an emergency involving a child or baby whilst in their care.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

All those who may need to provide first aid to younger children and babies.

CONTENT

- Plan and manage an incident involving a child or baby in their care taking into consideration their own and the child's safety.
- Assess a child or a baby's condition
- Place an unconscious child or baby in an appropriate position (usually recovery position) to maintain an open airway and effective breathing.
- Maintain a child or baby's basic life support until help arrives or they become exhausted.
- Recognise and give first aid treatment to a child or baby with a wide range of symptoms
- Recognise emergency or sudden illnesses including the suspicion of Meningitis/Measles/etc.
- Record and report all incidents, accidents or sudden illness to the appropriate person.
- List and maintain the contents of a first aid kit appropriate to looking after children and babies.
- Explain hygiene precautions when dealing with a child or baby's body fluid.